

Important Elements of an IIT Concept

Alcon

An IIT Concept provides a brief description of the proposed study including:

- The Therapeutic Area of Interest for the proposed study
- Type of device or devices to be evaluated in the study
- A brief description of the population that will be enrolled in the study
- The scientific or medical gap that the proposed study will fill
- The main objective of the study
- If possible, describe the new information this study will add to what is currently in the literature
- An estimated budget for study